TRADITION OF SUPPORT

Grosse Pointe Public Library's Central Branch was a gift to the Grosse Pointe community from Dexter M. Ferry and Murray Sales who knew well that libraries are the gems of our cultural heritage and the purveyors of our collective intellect. W. Hawkins Ferry said in 1954 at the grand opening of the Central branch that this building was designed "not as a mere repository of books but as a social, cultural, and civic crystallization point". Grosse Pointe Public Library endeavors still, 66 years later, to ensure the truth of this statement and drew inspiration from it when Central Plaza was designed.

Please join the tradition of philanthropic support of this historic building and leave your mark at Central Plaza. Give today to the Breuer Preservation Fund and help us to preserve, enhance and expand the mid-century modern architecture of Grosse Pointe Public Library's Central Branch.

(Library Board of Trustees has final authority in acceptance of gifts.)
